

Assignment – Elicitation (Part 2)

Assignment Goal

Complete Elicitation Part 1 assignment using the following template about the design of interviews and questionnaires (the template is available for download in the e-Learning page of the course):

Detailed implementation of the questionnaire
Structure	Explain how the question is organized (in sections)
Stakeholder(s)	Explain what stakeholders are targeted by the questionnaire and how they can be reached
For each section in the questionnaire
Questions	The list of questions to be asked
Requirements	The class of requirements expected for each section
Additional notes	A discussion of any relevant insights explaining your choices (e.g., answers rating scale)
Results for the questionnaire
Raw Data Collection	The feedback provided by the involved stakeholders, in the form of responses collected. Charts are encouraged (e.g., pie chart)
Data Analysis	An analysis of the collected data
Requirements	The list of actual requirements derived, specified according to a schema (see local rules for requirements).

Detailed implementation of the interview
Structure	Explain how the interview is organized (in sections)
Stakeholder(s)	Explain what stakeholders are targeted by the interview and how they can be reached
For each section in the interview
Questions	The list of questions to be asked
Requirements	The class of requirements expected for each section
Additional notes	A discussion of any relevant insights explaining your choices (e.g., why a certain question is asked)
Results of the interview
Raw Data Collection	The feedback provided by the involved stakeholders, in the form of the answers to each question
Data Analysis	An analysis of the collected data
Requirements	The list of actual requirements derived, specified according to a schema (see local rules for requirements).

Notice that:

- (i) The document must strictly adhere to the provided template
- (ii) Groups with 3-4 members must complete one interview and one questionnaire. Groups with 1-2 members must only complete one activity (either interview or questionnaire)
- (iii) For some projects, students may be among the stakeholders. If the questionnaire/ interview involves students, those who are part of the group conducting the elicitation activity must be excluded
- (iv) The assignment can be produced either in English or Italian

Submission Instructions

Submit on the e-Learning page of the course a PDF document generated from the available template. It is possible to link any additional artifact produced during the development of the assignment from the PDF document (make sure the link is publicly accessible).

Assignments will be checked for plagiarism against resources available on the Internet and assignments produced by other students (both from past years and this year). Students submitting material that is not the result of their original work will not pass the exam. Appropriate actions will also be taken by the teachers.
